Wiltown Community Center Park reopens after renovations

[ADAMS RUN] – On Saturday, Nov. 11, the Charleston County Park and Recreation Commission (CCPRC) reopened the park at Wiltown Community Center after renovations began in May.

Wiltown Community Center is a community administered recreation area providing services for families in the surrounding Adams Run area. In an effort to renovate and expand recreational facilities in this part of Charleston County, CCPRC entered into a Memorandum of Agreement with the Wiltown Community Organization to care for and maintain the renovated park. The conceptual site plan was created by CCPRC through a community participation process to identify and rank park features the community considered most critical.

Renovations of Wiltown Community Center included:

- A colorful 3000-sq.-ft. playground with a thoughtful design to accommodate use for people of all ages, along with mix of accessible surfaces and playground features, including a sensory panel and communication board. Close to the playground is a swinging bench and a picnic table.
- A 50' x 74' combination basketball/pickleball court and an adjoining grass 70' x 183' multi-purpose activity field.
- Major renovations to the outdoor shelter included renovating existing bathrooms to ADA standards; a renovated third bathroom off the catering kitchen; HVAC was installed for the restroom and catering kitchen area; a new roof was installed; wall height was raised; and a new catering kitchen was equipped with stainless steel work tables/countertops surfaces, stainless steel service carts, two sinks, a full-sized insulated heated holding/proofing cabinet, and a microwave and condiment cabinet station.
- New 10' x 10' grill pad area near the outdoor shelter with an accessible stainless steel grill.
- Widening and improvement of the main road and adding two additional parking areas, making it safer and more accessible to the park features. The new parking areas include accessible cement parking spaces.
- New accessible paths to the new and renovated park features: playground, outdoor shelter, grill pad area, basketball/pickleball court and activity field.
- Additional landscaping using native plantings.

A steering committee comprised of CCPRC representatives and Wiltown Community Center officers guided the development and approval of the final site plan. Some of the main driving design elements for the plan were the commitment to universal accessibility and durability of park features that require minimal maintenance.
